

CONTRIBUTORS AND EDITORS

Dominador Bombongan Jr. obtained his Licentiate and Doctorate in Theology from the Catholic University of Leuven in Belgium. He is a former professor of theology at De La Salle University, Manila. Currently, he is the Director of the School of Ministry of the Diocese of Stockton in California, USA. Recently, he completed his PhD in Educational Leadership and Management at De La Salle University, Manila.

Fr. Kenneth Centeno is a member of the Congregation of the Mission, Philippine Province. He obtained his Bachelor's Degree in Philosophy at Adamson University and his Masters in Systematic Theology at Saint Vincent School of Theology-Adamson University. After spending several years of pastoral work in Cebu and Manila, he was sent to Germany for his philosophical studies and obtained his doctoral degree in philosophy at RWTH-Aachen University. His contribution to this issue was written in 2014.

The two articles in this collection are posthumous publication of Georges De Shrijver who died in the Philippines while serving as a guest professor at the Ateneo de Manila University. He was a Jesuit and professor emeritus of the Catholic University of Louvain (Belgium). He was the founder of the Centre for Liberation Theology (KULeuven). He was also a guest lecturer in theological and philosophical institutes in India, Nigeria, Philippines and other places. His research interest was in the area of philosophy, fundamental theology, liberation and contextual theologies.

Fr. Kenneth C. Masong holds MA and PhD degrees in Philosophy at the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven (Belgium). He is a graduate of San Carlos Seminary (Makati City) where he finished his BA in Philosophy and MA in Theology. He is the author of Becoming-Religion: Alfred North Whitehead and a Philosophical Reflection (UST Publishing House, 2015), among other books and articles published mainly on the topic of philosophy of religion. Fr. Masong has been teaching philosophy courses in various institutions like Ateneo de Manila University and St. Vincent School of Theology. Currently, he's on teaching leave in view of his entrance to the religious congregation Clerics Regular Minor (Adorno Fathers and Brothers).

Maria Lovelyn C. Paclibar, Ph.D., is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Philosophy, Ateneo de Manila University. She obtained her degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the Institute of Philosophy, Katholieke Universiteit Leuven, Belgium, with her dissertation entitled Jürgen Habermas on Education and Political Solidarity: An Exploration. As a member of RIPPLE (Research in Political Philosophy Leuven), she specializes in research on the recent works of Jürgen Habermas particularly on religion and political solidarity. She also focuses on research on the intersections between the field of education and political philosophy, and enriches academic discourse in this area through her participation as core group member of the Kyudai-Ateneo Philosophy and Education Colloquium.

Fr. Peter M. Solis is an ordained priest of the Congregation of the Mission (Vincentians). He graduated from Adamson University, Manila, with a degree of Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy. He obtained his M.A. in Theology with concentration in Spirituality and has done Studies in Religious Formation, both from the Catholic Theological Union, Chicago, USA. Fr. Solis has also done professional training in Spiritual Direction from the Ignatius Jesuit Center, Guelph, Ontario, Canada. He has done formation ministry for many years and is currently the Formation Director of the Internal Seminary of the Vincentians, Philippine Province. For his secondary ministries, Fr. Solis engages in Spiritual Direction and facilitates Retreats for lay people, seminarians, and religious sisters. He also teaches Latin and Spirituality courses at St. Vincent School of Theology, Quezon City.

Charles R. Strain is a professor Emeritus of Religious Studies at De Paul University, Chicago, Evanston, Illinois, USA. He obtained his bachelor's degree in Philosophy and master's degree in History from Duquesne University and his doctoral degree in Historical Theology from University of Chicago. He served as a professor of Religious Studies and as an administrator in different capacities, like Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs at the De Paul University. He has published in the area of Global Migration, Environmental Ethics, and Human Rights with strong sense of cultural sensitivity, interdisciplinarity and interreligious perspective.